It was Rose Blossom's first Christmas in Ponyville.
Her friends were filled with excitement, and the little pony just couldn't wait to join in the fun!

Rose Blossom rushed to Twinkle Twirl's dance studio to meet Kimono. The two ponies were going to see all the Christmas sights and sounds of Ponyville.

Kimono was waiting inside with two steaming mugs of hot cocoa. The two ponies giggled as they licked off whipped cream mustaches.

"First," Kimono said, "I want to give you a behind-the-scenes look at the final rehearsal for the annual Christmas pageant."

The dancing ponies stopped to hear a final pep talk.
"Don't forget the most important thing:
Have fun out there tonight!" said Twinkle Twirl.

“We’ll see the pageant later, Rose Blossom,” Kimono whispered. “But first there are a few more Christmas treats waiting for you in Ponyville.”

"Our next stop is Sew-and-So's fabulous fashion studio," Kimono told Rose Blossom.

Sparkling snowflakes stuck to Rose Blossom's scarf and Kimono's cloak.

"Wow!" was all Rose Blossom could say when she saw the racks of beautiful clothes filling the studio. Fabric and sequins in every color of the rainbow were spread on top of Sew-and-So's worktables.

"You look like you've been working really hard,"
said Rose Blossom.

"I'm always busiest during the holiday season,"
Sew-and-So explained.

"This is my latest stocking design."
Sew-and-So held up a velvet stocking with green satin trim that said
"Kimono" in sparkly letters.

"Sew-and-So, this stocking is very pretty,"
Rose Blossom said admiringly.

"I've saved the best for last!" Sew-and-So said.
Rose Blossom's very own stocking was almost ready.

"We'd better go now!" Kimono exclaimed.
"Our next stop is the café. Thanks for showing us your latest designs, Sew!" she added as they rushed off.

Delicious smells greeted the ponies at the café kitchen.
"Hi, Cupcake and Sweetberry," Kimono said.
"As usual, it looks like you two are cooking up some tasty treats."

"We've been cooking all week," Cupcake explained.
"Cookies, cupcakes, pies, and of course
our famous Christmas popcorn strings,
to deck the halls and trim the tree."

"That reminds me. The tree trimming will be starting any minute now," Kimono said.
"We'd better head over to Celebration Castle."

"Everyone's favorite Ponyville tradition takes place tonight," said Kimono.

"The tree trimming!"

Rose Blossom's bright eyes sparkled with excitement.

“Every year each pony, big or small, adds a special ornament to the tree,” Kimono explained.

Everywhere Rose Blossom looked she saw beautiful holiday outfits, delicious food, and dancing, smiling ponies. But Rose Blossom was not smiling.

"What's wrong?" asked Kimono.

"Christmas Eve is a time to be happy."

"I am happy," said Rose Blossom, "but I didn't know I was supposed to bring something special for the tree."

"Oh, my sweet Rose Blossom!
Every year I give the littlest pony a special job," Kimono explained.

"I'm counting on you to put the Christmas star in the perfect place atop the highest branch on the tree."

"And I won't let you down," the happy pony replied, giving Kimono a special holiday hug.

Rose Blossom hung the star on the tree just right.
"What a merry Christmas it will be!" she cried happily.
